Pine Farm Table With Single Drawer, Sweden circa 1840

The beauty of this pine farm table comes from the warm aged pine and the clean tapered legs of the simple stretcher base. It may have originally served as a kitchen work table in a country manor house; note the scratches, dings, stains and age related separation of planks in the top reflecting years of use.

One simple drawer with slight curves is located in the center adding to its country appeal. Note the use of wood pegs instead of nails.

This 7.5' long farm table has been professionally restored so it is strong, stable and ready to use. The wood has been given a waxed finish.

Floor to skirt height: 23"
